The church in Charlotte

The church in Charlotte was re-established in 1998 through a migration that brought saints from all over the United States. The church completed construction of a meeting hall in 2004 that can seat over 300 saints and sits on 12 acres of land. About 120 currently gather on the Lord's Day mornings, including about 25 children. Saints also meet in small groups all over the city and its suburbs. The racial composition of the church is about 50% White and 50% a mix of Asian, Black, and Hispanic.

For many years, there has been a burden for the main campus here, UNC Charlotte, but there has never been a campus team. This burden is blossoming anew, and the church looks to the Lord to establish a team here soon. The church has two houses across the street from the campus, and other saints live nearby.

Location, climate, and health

Charlotte is located in the heart of the Carolinas between the Blue Ridge Mountains to the west and the Atlantic Ocean to the east. Driving times to several localities in the region are: Chapel Hill, NC—2:15; Raleigh, NC—2:45; Columbia, SC—1:45; Simpsonville, SC—2:00; Knoxville, TN—4:00; Atlanta, GA—4:15.

Charlotte has four distinct, but mild seasons: springs are comfortable, with highs in the 70s and an abundance of blossoming trees; winters are crisp, with frequent overnight freezes, daytime highs in the 50s, and usually three or four days of snow per year; summers are humid with highs averaging in the 80s; falls are pleasant and sometimes breezy, with highs averaging in the 70s and a great deal of fall color. Average annual rainfall is about 43 inches, but Charlotte is also a sunny city in all four seasons with 62% average daily sunshine. Note that Charlotte is too far from the coast to create concern about hurricanes.

Charlotte has two major health care systems, Atrium Health and Novant Health. In addition, Duke Health in Durham, NC and UNC Health Care in Chapel Hill, NC provide top medical care in numerous specialties.
